Dear Sisters and Brothers,

Spiritual Hunger

As we celebrate the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ (Corpus Christ), we are reminded that, the Eucharist is spiritual food. With the events happening around us, there is no doubt that, there is spiritual hunger among other challenges that people are facing. Unfortunately, many are filling that hunger with a variety of dangerous ideas, behaviors and pursuits. When the values of God's kingdom represented by the Holy Eucharist receive less and less attention, the outcome is often disarray in society.

By our participation in the Holy Eucharist, we are privileged to have our own spiritual hunger filled by Jesus Christ himself. "The Lord addresses an invitation to us, urging us to receive him in the sacrament of the Eucharist: 'Truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, you have no life in you.' (CCC, 1384)

"To respond to this invitation we must prepare ourselves for so great and so holy a moment. St. Paul urges us to examine our conscience: 'Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord. Let a man examine himself, and so eat of the bread and drink of the cup. For any one who eats and drinks without discerning the body eats and drinks judgment upon himself.' Anyone conscious of a grave sin must receive the sacrament of Reconciliation before coming to communion." (CCC, 1385)

The reception of Holy Communion also has its effects on our life as well as moving us to live by and share the values of the Kingdom. "Holy Communion separates us from sin. The body of Christ we receive in Holy Communion is 'given up for us,' and the blood we drink 'shed for the many for the forgiveness of sins.' For this reason the Eucharist cannot unite us to Christ without at the same time cleansing us from past sins and preserving us from future sins: 'For as often as we eat this bread and drink the cup, we proclaim the death of the Lord. If we proclaim the Lord's death, we proclaim the forgiveness of sins. If, as often as his blood is poured out, it is poured for the forgiveness of sins, I should always receive it, so that it may always forgive my sins. Because I always sin, I should always have a remedy.' (CCC, 1393)

"As bodily nourishment restores lost strength, so the Eucharist strengthens our charity, which tends to be weakened in daily life; and this living charity wipes away venial sins.²³¹ By giving himself to us Christ revives our love and enables us to break our disordered attachments to creatures and root ourselves in him: 'Since Christ died for us out of love, when we celebrate the memorial of his death at the moment of sacrifice we ask that love may be granted to us by the coming of the Holy Spirit. We humbly pray that in the strength of this love by which Christ willed to die for us, we, by receiving the gift of the Holy Spirit, may be able to consider the world as crucified for us, and to be ourselves as crucified to the world. . . . Having received the gift of love, let us die to sin and live for God.'" (CCC, 1394)

Take, and Eat

“Take, I say. Receive a gift freely given. Accept my body, broken for the life of the world. Accept the cup of my blood, poured out on Calvary for you and for all men and women. I give you myself so you may eat and drink and have your spiritual fill. But you must take.

I do not force myself upon you.

Take, that you may taste the sweetness of my presence, that you may feel the strength of my embrace.

Take, that you may hear the melody of my love song, the words I whisper in your heart. Take, that you may carry me with you each day, from dawn through the long night. Eat hungrily of the bread I break that you may be one with me, one with each other, one with the world. Drink deeply of the cup I offer so that your tears may mingle with mine, so that you may drink in the reign of God. I will be your light in darkness, your food and drink in the desert, your life in death.

Take me. I am yours now and forever.”
