The Rich Man and Lazarus

Twenty-Sixth Annual Ordinary Liturgy

September 25, 2022

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

Stewardship of Blessings

In last Sunday's parable, Jesus talked about the dishonest steward who squandered his master's property. A follow to that, is a parable that challenges our stewardship of the blessings entrusted to us. The rich man is in some ways no different than the dishonest steward in his self-interestedness and lack of concern for someone who is in dire need. Indifference to the needs of others is to completely disregard our common humanity in the face of suffering. This indifference is not however a function of how much we may have in terms of material blessings. What is important is having the disposition to solidarity even when we are not able to assist substantially.

“The principle of solidarity, also articulated in terms of ‘friendship’ or ‘social charity,’ is a direct demand of human and Christian brotherhood. An error, ‘today abundantly widespread, is disregard for the law of human solidarity and charity, dictated and imposed both by our common origin and by the equality in rational nature of all men, whatever nation they belong to. This law is sealed by the sacrifice of redemption offered by Jesus Christ on the altar of the Cross to his heavenly Father, on behalf of sinful humanity.’ (CCC, 1939)

“Solidarity is manifested in the first place by the distribution of goods and remuneration for work. It also presupposes the effort for a more just social order where tensions are better able to be reduced and conflicts more readily settled by negotiation. (CCC, 1940)

“Socio-economic problems can be resolved only with the help of all the forms of solidarity: solidarity of the poor among themselves, between rich and poor, of workers among themselves, between employers and employees in a business, solidarity among nations and peoples. International solidarity is a requirement of the moral order; world peace depends in part upon this. (CCC, 1941)

“The virtue of solidarity goes beyond material goods. In spreading the spiritual goods of the faith, the Church has promoted, and often opened new paths for, the development of temporal goods as well. And so throughout the centuries has the Lord's saying been verified: ‘Seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well’: For two thousand years this sentiment has lived and endured in the soul of the Church, impelling souls then and now to the heroic charity of monastic farmers, liberators of slaves, healers of the sick, and messengers of faith, civilization, and science to all generations and all peoples for the sake of creating the social conditions capable of offering to everyone possible a life worthy of man and of a Christian. (CCC, 1942)

“The equal dignity of human persons requires the effort to reduce excessive social and economic inequalities. It gives urgency to the elimination of sinful inequalities. (CCC, 1947)

“Solidarity is an eminently Christian virtue. It practices the sharing of spiritual goods even more than material ones.” (CCC, 1947)

Have a blessed week everyone!

Live Simply, So That Others May Simply Live
The parable of Lazarus and the rich man speaks to our hearts. In some ways, we may be able to identify with either of the individuals. In any event, we are asked to place ourselves into the scene and to ask some difficult questions if we identify ourselves with the rich man. How do we share the gifts and richness that we have? Are we blind to the needs of those who (although are not at our feet) are in front of our eyes, at our door, or on the street where we live? If we see ourselves as the poor man, do we see a hope for our resurrection into new life through and during our suffering? We all have a part to play in the drama of the spiritual journey, and Jesus calls us to the same happy ending into the Kingdom. How well do we respond to those needy at our door?

Christ is present

"Moreover, the Catholic Church has held firm to this belief in the presence of Christ's Body and Blood in the Eucharist not only in her teaching but in her life as well, since she has at all times paid this great Sacrament the worship known as "latría," which may be given to God alone. As St. Augustine says: "It was in His flesh that Christ walked among us and it is His flesh that He has given us to eat for our salvation; but no one eats of this flesh without having first adored it . . . and not only do we not sin in thus adoring it, but we would be sinning if we did not do so." (MF 55)

Cristo se hace Sacramentalmente Present

"Por lo demás, la Iglesia católica, no sólo ha enseñado siempre la fe sobre a presencia del cuerpo y sangre de Cristo en la Eucaristía, sino que la ha vivido también, adorando en todos los tiempos sacramento tan grande con el culto latréutico que tan sólo a Dios es debido. Culto sobre el cual escribe san Agustín: "En esta misma carne [el Señor] ha caminado aquí y esta misma carne nos la ha dado de comer para la salvación; y ninguno come esta carne sin haberla adorado antes..., de modo que no pecamos adorándola; antes al contrario, pecamos si no la adoramos."
