When Yes is Not Enough

All of our religious life is peppered with yeses to God in one form or another. We speak them in hymn and creed and prayer: We spout our God directed yeses to His commandments and miracles alike, declaring unswerving faith from Bethlehem to the garden of the Resurrection. But before we allow our many yeses, sung, spoken or thought, to lull us into spiritual smugness consider the story Jesus tells in today's Gospel. This is a story of a yes-man who failed to follow through, and a nay-sayer who turned his life around. The turn about ending gives us all pause. Are we that same yes-man, agreeing with God out of habit, but letting our feet wander in the opposite direction? If so, take heart. Today's lesson invites us to make good on yesterday's yeses and even turn around the times we may have uttered a no. The important thing is to set our hands and hearts to the tasks He has given us. Our yes-es aren't enough. Make your works, not your words, speak for themselves.

I just ordered a life alert bracelet so if I get a life, I'll be notified immediately.

“In liturgical celebrations each person, minister or layman, who has an office to perform, should do all of, but only, those parts which pertain to his office by the nature of the rite and the principles of liturgy. Servers, lectors commentators, and members of the choir also exercise a genuine liturgical function. They ought, therefore, to discharge their office with the sincere piety and decorum demanded by so exalted a ministry and rightly expected of them by God's people. Consequently, they must all be deeply imbued with the spirit of the liturgy, each in his own measure, and they must be trained to perform their functions in a correct and orderly manner” (SC, ## 28-29).

“En las celebraciones litúrgicas, cada persona, ministro o laico, que tenga un oficio que desempeñar, debe hacer todas, pero sólo aquellas partes que pertenecen a su oficio por la naturaleza del rito y los principios de la liturgia. Los servidores, los lectores, los comentaristas y los miembros del coro también ejercen una función litúrgica genuina. Deben, por lo tanto, desempeñar su cargo con la piedad sincera y el decoro que exige un ministerio tan exaltado y que justamente espera de ellos el pueblo de Dios. En consecuencia, todos deben estar profundamente imbuidos del espíritu de la liturgia, cada uno en su propia medida, y deben ser preparados para desempeñar sus funciones de manera correcta y ordenada” (SC, ## 28-29).
